have been thought of as aggregations of retail offerings arranged in a variety of formats from strip and open-air to fully enclosed. Critics argue consumers have outgrown malls. Other observers counter that commercial institutions evolve and that the future of shopping centers has never looked more promising.

In past decades, shopping centers and major malls often featured one or more anchor stores – a widely popular store in a huge retail space responsible for driving much of the location’s foot traffic. Anchor stores were once a staple of the mall and included stores such as Sears, J.C. Penney and Macy’s.
