Pierced, mutilated and marked, mortified and glorified, scarred by disease and stretched and enveloping the skin of another in pregnancy, skin is seen here as both a boundary and a point of connection - the place where one touches and is touched by others; both the most private of experiences and the most public marker...

Thinking through the Body: Richard Shusterman—

Between Michael Faber's novel and the film adaptation written by Walter Campbell and Jonathan Glazer (directed by the latter), Under The Skin has two existences. There is a basic speculative premise shared between the two—a woman drives around Scotland, picking up men for a nefarious network—as well as a more or less similar story spine (we'll get into that in a minute).

Thinking Through the Skin (Transformations): Jackie Stacey—

This exciting collection of work from leading feminist scholars including Elspeth Probyn, Penelope Deutscher and Chantal Nadeau engages with and extends the growing feminist literature on lived and imagined embodiment and argues for consideration of the skin as a site where bodies take form - already written upon but open to endless re-inscription.
