You have found a tarnished necklace, though the tarnish belies intricate and magical craftsmanship. The necklace has been shattered, as its setting appears to be missing three gems. On the underside of the necklace is the faint imprint of the city seal for Ironforge. Below the seal are three tiny, engraved letters: "TdK".

Comment by hyrar Seems this item (and most likely the others) are personal loot. Just ran through 10 man normal Dragon Soul with a friend as it was their first time, and upon looting Deathwing, there was no music sheet, but my friend informed me the after the looting, the corpse was still loot able but only for them.

So World of Warcraft: The Shattering tells the story of the lead up to "The Shattering", where Azeroth is attacked by Deathwing. I was expecting it to be about the events of the Shattering, ie the world falling apart, however it turned out to be more about the politics of Azeroth than anything else.

The world quest UI is pretty inept. it's difficult to track if you're even doing things right. Comment by Shry While here, be sure to jump down to the middle of the bottom floor (between 3-4 maidens channeling) there is a Volatile Leyline Crystal on the floor, and it will increase your maximum mana shards by 100
